With regard to the remaining properties on your March 16, 2020 list, we are conferring with the relevant instrumentalities to determine what information is available.

B. March 16, 2020 Assets Request No. 3

Your March 16, 2020 requests sought “Documents sufficient to show, from January 1, 2015 to the present, any proceeds or revenues derived from ad valorem taxes on any of the Commonwealth’s or its instrumentalities’ assets, including (without limitation) tax receipts and/or other documents relating to the levy of ad valorem taxes.”

Our May 19, 2020 letter directed Ambac to Hacienda’s public monthly general fund revenue reporting.² This webpage includes monthly general fund reporting back to Fiscal Year 2015, and the monthly reports include a line item disclosing property tax revenues. In addition, more detailed information on property tax collections, including breakdowns of collection rates by municipality, is provided in the CRIM fiscal plan.³

Your July 30, 2020 email additionally requests “documents sufficient to identify all tax collectables held by the Commonwealth, the aggregate value of such tax collectibles, a list of specific tax arrears, the owners of any properties in arrears, and the amount of unpaid taxes on each property.” This request is overbroad and unduly burdensome, particularly insofar as it appears to seek property-specific arrearage information. Nevertheless, we are working to determine what information may be readily accessible and are willing to meet and confer regarding ways to narrow this request.

C. Additional Information Regarding the Official Inventory

In response to Ambac’s request for an “as of” date of the online repository of the Official Inventory of Real Estate Properties of the Government of Puerto Rico disclosed in our February 24, 2020 letter, we have determined that the Official Inventory’s online repository was created in April 2015. However, because individual instrumentalities are responsible for their own updates, the Official Inventory does not have a particular comprehensive “as of” date that we can provide for the data in the repository.⁴

D. Update on COVID Restrictions

Finally, as mentioned in the Government Parties’ recent status report on the COVID-19 pandemic, COVID-19 cases have increased in recent weeks. Case No. 17-04780, ECF 2111, at 6. Currently, many government employees continue to work remotely, as encouraged by Executive Order No. 2020-060. Agencies have been developing work plans regarding measures to prevent the spread of the COVID-19 virus, which include limitations on in-office work, and disinfection and other procedures upon notice of suspected or confirmed cases. In connection with these work plans, several agencies have had to temporarily close to comply with their respective preventive measures.

Sincerely,
